Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurA world without war? Professor Sawhele Fielding stumbles across an invention that would change the world; something so monumental, it could spell the end of environmental disaster and conflict. With the help of her father, a shadowy figure in the world of international banking, she begins to set into motion the biggest upheaval the planet has seen.But in a changed world, dark forces are threatening the fragile peace.Where modern technology is proving useless,old magic from a bygone era might just save the day.Adrian Oliver, expert in ancient religions is skeptical until faced with incontrovertible proof that ancient evil is abroad once again. How could a Utopian dream of free fuel and peaceful co-existence turn into a nightmare? Iamo, a priest of the Mother Goddess and Riga, a Black Shaman assassin captain, are thrown together reluctantly at first to face a threat that nobody could have imagined before The Changes. ALCHEMY is the prequel to Shaman's Drum which features the adventures of Iamo and Riga through their world in the near future, where the established religions of our own days had been banned. ~~~~Praise for Shaman's Drum: This book had me entranced from the moment I opened it Cait O'Sullivan, author I like books which keep my attention, make me want to read more, and make me "feel" for the characters, and this book did, so 5*! Gina Dickerson, novelist Engrossing and entertaining Nancy Jardine, author Presentation de l'diteur A world without war?
